Saturday 12pm

Terrastorm Trailer (Director: Andrew Kaggia, 3 mins) A group of African superheroes unite in an attempt to vanquish an ancient wizard who threatens to destroy the earth with a powerful mysterious artifact.

Evenveil (Director: Sam Balcomb, 9 mins) A warrior in exile, bearing a fated weapon, enters the ruins of a dead city to unlock a mysterious power known as the Red Veil. Starring Alexis Peters, Aria Song, Nick Apostolina, Dawson Mullen.

Guardian (Director: Alexander Crews, 11 mins) A thrill-seeking swordsman seeks out the tree of life, only he must get through the legendary guardian first, and he gets far more than he bargained for. Starring Lisa Wardell, TJ Cencula, Anika Williams

The Molok (Director: Sam Wilson, 16 mins) The Molok follows Micah, a young boy dealing with the grief of losing his father. When Micah's mother falls ill, he runs away, finding himself drawn to the wreckage of a fire-ravaged building. Inside an ancient creature has made its home, collecting, and coveting the community's lost possessions, feeding off the memories they hold. The Molok makes Micah an offer: to rid him of all his painful memories. The cost? All the good ones he has left. Starring Julian Fuentes, Tom Hewitt, Alexis Fuentes, Xander Flynn-Chauncey

Witches of Bushwick (Director: Joe Pardavila, Catherine Delaloye, 19 mins) Inspired by the popular #WitchesofInstagram trend, the movie follows a group of young women who are part of a modern coven. The witches' seemingly harmless practices take a dark turn when their rituals start to attract the attention of the supernatural. What started as an innocent pursuit of magic quickly turns into a terrifying fight for survival. "The Witches of Bushwick" is a biting critique of the social media culture that has taken over our lives, reminding us that the pursuit of likes and followers can have dangerous consequences. With its thrilling plot, memorable characters, and thought-provoking message, this movie will leave you on the edge of your seat and thinking long after the credits roll. Starring Chloe Farnworth, Catherine Delaloye, Charly Bivona, Alina Carson, Marianne Noscheze
